Re: PSHE this half term

Dear Parents/Carers,

Welcome back, I hope you have all had a lovely summer. Throughout the year, I would like to share with you more about the PSHE (personal, social, health and economic) lessons that your child has in school each half term. This will hopefully enable you to feel included in their learning, and to continue discussions about the core themes and activities at home with them, if you should wish to do so.

As you may know, our school follows the Coram “SCARF” PSHE programme, which is a spiral curriculum where children revisit the same six core themes each year. As they move through school, the children build upon their prior PSHE knowledge and Understanding, as the lessons increase in complexity and depth.

This half term’s core theme is: Me and My Relationships

If you would like to view the home activities linked to this unit then this link takes you to the correct SCARF webpage: <https://www.coramlifeeducation.org.uk/scarf/home-learning-unit-1>

If you would like to know more about PSHE at our school, there is additional information on our webpage: <http://www.southwilford.nottingham.sch.uk/pshe/>

Many thanks for your support and cooperation,

Mrs Burke
(PSHE Lead)
